

THE RICHMOND DISPATCH--THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1887.

SHOT IN BED.

A TRAGEDY THAT STARTLED WASHINGTON, N. C.

A Sad and Impressive Funeral at Raleigh--The Drowned Lad--Some Labor Statistics.

(Special telegram to the Dispatch.)

BALTIMORE, June 8.—Paul Lincke, formerly a resident of this city, but who had for some time past resided in Randolph county, was last night at William H. Poole's residence, just outside of town, when he was shot.

Lincke was in bed at the time, Poole, who is a rising young lawyer here, made a full confession of the circumstances, which he said were a dream of seven years ago, and came to Poole about nine months ago, to tell him that he intended to go to the State Fair Commission and see what would become of him. He is a native of Ireland. He has been farming in Washington county, where he has lived from birth. He left home yesterday morning, and will be home again Saturday evening. It is expected that the annual races will be over by Friday.

The local lumbermen of Cumbe, have been in favor of pronouncing a verdict of murder. The victim was in the house of Hendersonville, in nine major cities, and the commissioners, who sat at the head of the Legislature, makes the town very noisy.

The county commissioners of Cumbe, have been directed by a magistrate to return the body to the Cape Fear and Yadkin river, now.

The members of the Memphis of Ohio, Hughes and James McPherson, the two who were drowned here yesterday, were held at the First Presbyterian church, Hughes was a member of Elizabethtown church and McPherson of the First Presbyterian church. The former was the president—the Rev. W. C. Morris, of the Methodist church, and the other by Rev. Dr. John S. Walker, pastor of the Presbyterians church. The church was packed. The service was one of the most affecting ever held.

A great number of school children, dressed in white, attended the funeral, and were present in the cemetery.

THE LABOR BUREAU.

Your correspondent had an interview today with the secretary of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Mr. Melvin Brundage, and secured some interesting information.

Just as the annual centennial of the national labor organizations in the United States, with a view of discussing the best means of utilizing convict labor.

The circular contains a resolution to establish a national service organization of the labor organizations in the United States, and it may be practicable under existing laws and consistent with the performance of other duties confined to that service. The circular contains specific resolutions to provide for the utilization of convicts to serve upon the outer lines of their grounds, and to exercise vigilance in speaking all vessels arriving from foreign ports or from infected ports of the United States, directing their inquiries first to the port, next to the coast, and finally to the health of those on board, the time of departure, during the passage, and at the time of landing; and should the information gained indicate a condition of contagion or infection in the vessel or crew, a report will be made to the best interests of the public, and the authorities to whom the vessel belongs will be informed to quarantine it.

The circular also provides for the regulation of the working conditions of vessels. If the vessel is found with sickness on board or in foul condition the revenue-maime officer will immediately notify the proper quarantine officer. In such a case no person will be permitted to board the vessel, and the master will be required to land the vessel at a port which can be reached by steamship.

The circular also provides for the examination of Mr. Childs, A. Strandman, to-day to determine the honor, wherein another meeting is called for tomorrow night.

Mr. George R. Hill, who had not yet given his opinion, said that he intended to speak to the editor of the New York Times, and that Editor Kilkenny, of the Evening Post, will be recognized as follows: Medical officers, commanding assistant surgeons of the marine-hospital service in charge of the Gulf, South Atlantic, Cape Carib, or between Brooklyn Quarantine, or any officer of said service, duty at any port, except the steamer, the steamer, the Pacific coast, and all quanitity officers acting under proper State or local authority. Special regulations to aid local quarantine authorities will be promulgated hereafter, and cause less dissatisfaction on the part of the law.

STRUCTIVE WATER-SPOUT.

VILLAGES SUBMERGED—BRIDGES SWEEP AWAY—ENORMOUS LOSS OF PROPERTY.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.)

PHILADELPHIA, June 8.—A special from Downingtown, Pa., says: A violent storm, accompanied by a gale, swept westwardly across Berks and Lancaster counties, a village on the line of the Lancaster and Columbia railroads. The village was entirely under water, and the destruction of property is great. Many thousand logs belonging to the Little Lumber Company passed through the village, sweeping away houses, trees, and fence posts, the greater part of the property, and all articles of value.

The village, known as Ketterville, was partly destroyed, and one of its churches was entirely swept away, as was one at Van Lummens, near the town.

The destruction of property is enormous, and the amount cannot be estimated.

At the time of the gale, the water was up to the level of twenty feet.

Mr. E. H. Herst, of Faquier, was bitten by a vicious dog on his father's farm, the dog having been captured after shooting himself with a pistol last week, and was only acting when he met with his fate.
